Good Evans, its Childs Play for Rushen!

Rushen Silver Band has just enjoyed a workshop weekend with their charismatic Musical Advisor, Richard Evans, and guest euphonium soloist, David Childs. The Band began rehearsals with Richard on Thursday evening, tackling a variety of new repertoire. Rehearsals continued on the Friday evening with more new music to challenge the Band, including the solo items that they would accompany David Childs. Saturday afternoon saw the Band set up at Castle Rushen High School in preparation for that evening's concert, and their introductory rehearsal with their guest soloist.

Saturday night's concert got underway in true brass band tradition with Alford's rousing 'Army of the Nile'. Richard Evans compered the concert in his own inimitable style of wit and knowledge. The Band continued with Carl Gottlieb 'Reissiger's Die Felsenmuhle' (The Mill on the Cliff) overture.

David Childs' first piece was Peter Graham's 'Brilliant' and it certainly lived up to its title! David gave some background to the piece, which was originally written for his Uncle Nick & father Bob Childs, who are both internationally renowned euphonium soloists and conductors in their own rights (see picture on page 4). By means of a complete contrast, David chose as his next solo the extremely beautiful 'Benedictus' from the Armed Man by fellow Welshman Karl Jenkins. This piece fully demonstrated David's true musicianship. To close the first half, the Band played Alan Fernie's adrenaline charged pastiche piece, 'Prismatic Light'.

In the second half, the Band's principal euphonium Martin Norbury joined David to perform the famous operatic duet 'Deep Inside the Sacred Temple' from Bizet's 'The Pearl Fishers'. As his encore, David wowed the audience once again with his own arrangement of the Paul Nero piece 'The Hot Canary'. In his foreword to the piece, David mentioned that it was a relatively unknown piece until it was set to words and recorded by Ella Fitzgerald.

Band Chairman Tom Sinden came forward to give his vote of thanks along with presenting some gifts to David, Richard, and Richard's partner Pam. He also thanked the Isle of Man Arts Council for their support of the workshop and concert; and the continued legacy of the Alistair Drinkwater Memorial Trust, which was set up to undertake study weekends such as this. It was particularly fitting that Alistair's parents Eric and Barbara were both present at the concert.

For the Band's finale they turned to the music of Bill Whelan who penned the Irish Dance sensation 'Riverdance'. Richard Evans, in his preface to the piece, paid tribute to the progress that the Band had made in recent years as this music was virtually unplayable five years ago! The concert closed in true Manx style with the Manx National Anthem and the customary 'Oie Vie' salutation.

★ As ever, the Band are extremely appreciative of Richard's input over the weekend
 ★ - his knowledge and wisdom are invaluable - thank you for another fantastic weekend!

Band Christmas Concert

Rushen Primary School will be the venue for the Band's Christmas Concert on Saturday 28th November. This year, the Band are delighted to be able to welcome back well-known local singers Jane Mayne (Mezzo Soprano) and Paul Costain (Bass) to not only perform individual pieces in the concert, but also join the Band in what will no doubt be another special evening for all.

Tom Sinden, Band Chairman, said: "The Band was delighted when both Jane & Paul accepted our invitation to join us again for our Christmas Concert. Similarly to previous years, I'm sure the audience will have a thoroughly enjoyable evening and will leave with a feeling of Christmas to start the festive season. The concert will be the start of a very busy few weeks for the members of the Band who will be playing at eighteen events through December".

Tickets are £6 (£3 for under 18s) from Peter Faragher, Band Secretary, on 493193, or email secretary@rushensilverband.org.im.

David Childs' Masterclass

Having not only been treated to the opportunity of hearing David Childs in concert, he kindly agreed to hold a masterclass for local brass musicians on the Sunday morning before he made his return trip back to London Stansted and on to Newport!

David opened by discussing the importance of breathing in brass playing and emphasized how fundamental this is to performing on a brass instrument. He went on to discuss the idea that effective breathing exercises should relate to actually playing your instrument. He continued by talking about sound; emphasizing the importance of listening to other players whilst not losing sight of our own individual sound. He gave examples of his own influences during his childhood including both his father and uncle (David photographed in Bandroom with the picture of his father & uncle!).

The masterclass continued with young trombonist Owen Williams playing the opening slow section of the Vittorio Monti's 'Czardas', with David noting the importance of warming up effectively before performing. The discussion continued with the difference between tonguing on Trombone and Euphonium and good slide technique. David also talked about the need for a good single tonguing technique and suggested that playing studies and exercises with dotted rhythms helps to develop this. The next section of the masterclass consisted of David discussing and demonstrating various aspects of brass playing that people attending the masterclass were keen to improve. These included developing your high register. David talked about the significance of air support and the importance of a secure low register. He made reference to a book of Lip Flexibilities by Dr Charles Colin and how this can help develop your inner and outer embouchures. Quiet playing was the next topic and the need to practice at quieter dynamics, as a common mistake is that people only practice at the same dynamic all the time.

David concluded by talking performance nerves, and shared with the audience his experience of preparing for his concerto performance as part of his 'Young Musician of the Year' Final. As this event was to be televised he arranged for fellow students to video him in his rehearsals. He put Vaseline on his lips to recreate the situation of sweating under television lighting and to emulate the effect of his pulse racing on stage for the actual performance he ran up and down the stairs several times before the rehearsal!

A huge thank you to David Childs for sharing his expertise and advice to help our Band members develop their own skills for the future.

Annual Dinner, Dance and Awards Evening

The Band's Annual Dinner will be taking place on Saturday 5th March 2016 at the Bradda Glen Restaurant and Tea Rooms in Port Erin. Looking forward to more fun during 2016...

The Band are delighted to be performing at the first Parish of Rushen Concert for 2016. The Concert will be taking place on Thursday 14th January 2016 at St Catherine's Church, Port Erin, starting at 7.45pm. The concert should enable the Band to put away their carol books and look to play some new music for both them and the audience in what should be a great follow-up on the service at Kerrowkeil Chapel. For the other dates upcoming for the Band in 2016, watch this space!

Thank you to Phil Woodford for another fabulous cartoon to make us smile! ☺
